Teachers: Drinóczi Tímea, Komanovics Adrienne, Nives Mazur-Kumric, Anita Blagijevic

The course is offered to 4 Croatian and 4 Hungarian students.

ECTS: 4 credits

Brief description

Human right protection is a complex system including national, supranational and international protection interacting regimes. It is even truer by the coming into force of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the EU as well as the intention of the EU to join the European Convention of Human Rights. It is important for student to be aware of the national (Hungarian and Croatian) human rights procedures in order to apply for the supranational and international bodies. Therefore the course covers the following fields:

- Human rights protection – EU: evolution and binding nature of the Charter of Fundamental Rights, its interpretation; joining the ECHR; fundamental rights as the general principles of the EU legal order, common constitutional traditions of Member States; Charter of Fundamental Rights and the relevant case law of the ECtHR.

- Human rights protection – international level: i) Origins of human rights protection. United Nations human rights mechanisms: it starts with a theoretical introduction relating to the origins of human rights protection in the international legal system. Afterwards, it concentrates on the human rights mechanisms developed in the UN, with special emphasis on the work of the Human Rights Council as well as that of the core treaty bodies. ii) Human rights protection within the Council of Europe: gives an insight in the conventional system of human rights protection, the one primarily based on the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms.

- Human rights protection – Croatia; Hungary: it is important for students to be aware of the national human rights procedures in order to apply for the supranational and international bodies.

Classes will be held in the SUMMER SCHOOL, Pécs, 9-15 July 2012, with one-day excursion to Osijek. (See the schedule below.)
